SCC – use of photos of members on social media

We have found that showing a few photos from club events on social media (such as the club's public Facebook page) is a great way to show that we're an active and approachable group. So we hope it is okay if on occasion we use photos that include you. We would normally try and make it clear at that time of the event that photos are being taken for this purpose. Of course we would remove any photo immediately if a member asked us to.

We are careful to ensure that all photos are appropriate and that they portray the club and climbing in general in a positive light. We would also never post photos of a member's child(ren) without the member's prior permission.

Finally, we hope you also don't mind if we occasionally ask your permission to reuse photos that you may have posted on social media sites which are related to the club directly or climbing in general.
